Saturday, September 8th - 2 PM: SoCal Music Academy presents

The SoCal Music Academy located in Lakeside, presents their young musicians at work here at Lakeside Library. Students from SCMA are already achieved some pretty incredible things! Teachers frequently work with students to form bands with other SCMA students, which then practice in the SCMA facilities. These bands often go on to play live shows, including Del Mar Fair, Miss America Pageant, theater productions, local music venues restaurants, live radio shows, charity events, local coffee shops, and open mics! Student bands have also gone on to writing and recording their own music, releasing their own demos. Lakeside has talent - find out for yourself!!!

Monday, September 10th - 1:00 PM: Author Visit - Nicole Strickland

Nicole Strickland presents about various paranormal topics at conferences and other libraries. She gives a general presentation about the San Diego Paranormal Research Society and blends that in with stories about haunted locations in San Diego, which is also the topic of one of her recent books. Nicole Strickland is a well-respected paranormal researcher, published author, writer and lecturer who currently resides in San Diego, California. She has been actively investigating historical landmarks, businesses and private residences for para-normal activity since the early 2000s. She is the Founder and Director of the San Diego Paranormal Research Society (SDPRS) Nicole has worked with various Southern California paranormal research teams prior to developing SDPRS in 2009. She was also a core member of the Ghost Research Society from 2009 – 2017, serving as the Southern California Area Research Director. Nicole also serves as a consultant to World Paranormal Investigations as well as a California Representative for the American Spectral Society. She is author of several books on the subject.

Tuesday, September 11th - 3:00 PM: Author Visit - Ross Moore

Ross Moore reads from his novel "Third Monday in May - a novel concerning the remarkable Events of the First Kentucky Derby" It is spring 1875, and in an effort to boost the prestige of his new racetrack in Louisville and the first running of his Kentucky Derby, Meriwether Lewis Clark, Jr. has invited the most famous couple in America to attend. Abraham and Mary Lincoln, living in retirement in Springfield since the end of his eventful years as president (nearly cut short by a failed assassination attempt), accept his invitation to revisit their home state. But for Alexander Delacroix, a New Orleans gambler, this presents the opportunity for him to exact long awaited revenge for the defeated Confederacy. As the Lincolns make their way to Kentucky, a dark conspiracy takes shape against the backdrop of final preparations for the opening day of the track. Together with a cast of thoroughbred horsemen and African- American trainers and jockeys all dreaming of racing glory, their fates will collide on the...THIRD MONDAY IN MAY. Ross R. Moore is an educator, storyteller, and singer/songwriter living in San Diego. A native of Kentucky where he attended Murray State University and the University of Louisville, he was for several years a museum educator at the Kentucky Derby Museum, sharing the history of the race with visitors. Now he brings this story to a wider audience, drawing upon his knowledge of Derby lore to form the backdrop of this, his first novel.
